

For us, the security and the well-being of all our guests and crew members are always a top priority. In order to ensure that in the best possible way we have developed a comprehensive health and safety concept, established in cooperation with the representatives of European shipping companies, namely IG River Cruise and the European Inland Navigation Union (EBU) and based on the legal regulations of the individual countries visited. To ensure maximum safety on all our AMADEUS vessels, these measures need to be respected by us, as the cruise line, and by you, as our guests and passengers.

- Regular health checks and tests are administered to the crew while they work on board.
- All crew members are provided with sufficient protective equipment such as face masks, disposable gloves, etc. and are regularly instructed on how to use them.

- All passengers will be tested with a contactless thermometer before embarking for the first time. Passengers with a body temperature of 99.5°F degrees or higher will be denied boarding.
- All luggage handles will be disinfected prior to embarkation, and will then be taken to the cabin by the crew.
- All passengers and crew will be required to disinfect their hands each time prior to boarding the ship.
- Correct social distancing between passengers is required at check-in at the reception desk.
- If staggered arrival (buses with appropriate time intervals) is not possible, additional waiting areas will be created in front of the ship and access to the gangway will be coordinated by a crew member.
- In all cases, the relevant regulations of the local port authorities will be observed.
- Crew and passengers going ashore and returning back on board must inform Gangway Security or Reception, and disinfect their hands. Additionally, crew members will provide information on the waiting area ashore.

General Rules on Board

PHYSICAL DISTANCING AND MASKS

- Operational procedures on board have been arranged to ensure a sufficient distance to fellow passengers and crew members can be maintained.
- At this time, all crew members are required to wear face coverings when moving through interior spaces on the ship.
- The requirement of mandatory face masks applies to crew members only, but for passengers it is recommended to wear face masks when moving through interior spaces on the ship and while using public transportation on shore.
- The crew will forego handshakes and other physical greeting rituals.

ADDITIONAL MEASURES

- Hygiene and disinfection measures are carried out by the crew at regular intervals.
- Sufficient hand sanitizing points are available in all highly frequented areas of the ship (entrance, Restaurant, Panorama-Bar, Amadeus-Club, sun deck and at the entrances and exits of the crew areas). The products used are confirmed by the manufacturers as being effective against coronaviruses.
- Sufficient personal protective equipment (especially face masks) are available on board. However, should guests choose to wear a mask, tour operators and travel agencies should inform passengers to bring their own masks on board.
- The current EU Healthy Gateway guidelines apply for cleaning and disinfection on board.
- The air conditioning system is designed in such a way that the cabin air is discharged to the outside, thus preventing re-circulation within the vessel. Additional technical measures and disinfection measures are used for critical areas such as public spaces. In other areas, crew members are instructed to provide increased fresh air ventilation.
- Crew members access cabins only after having disinfected their hands and while wearing face masks.
- Information regarding key measures, especially social distancing, adherence to sneezing and coughing etiquette, as well as the use of disinfection stations and face masks will be posted in public areas.
- Cabin keys are disinfected each time they are returned to the reception desk.

Illness on Board

As a responsible cruise line, it is our priority to prevent the transmission of infections on board, including infections of the coronavirus COVID-19. Should a passenger display symptoms, a contingency plan specifically developed by the Fleet Health Officer of the AMADEUS cruise line will be implemented.

The Fleet Health Officer will assess the specific situation based on the symptoms and health status of an affected passenger or crew member, and initiate the appropriate measures. These measures can be regular monitoring, isolation or quarantine, depending on the situation and the infection present.

As a cruise line, we have a plan in place to ensure medical care for passengers and crew in the ports along the route if necessary. A return to the ship is only possible if certified by a medical professional that it is safe to continue on the cruise.

Shore Excursions

Shore excursions will be organized in accordance with the respective local rules and regulations. These may vary depending on the country and may affect the tour group sizes permitted. Changes are taken into account on a daily basis and implemented on board.

In order to comply with social distancing requirements, the use of the wireless audio guides is mandatory.
